FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY AT 31 MAR 2024

We have observed persistent global inflationary pressures since the beginning of the year. While headline inflation across various economies continues to decline gradually, core inflation remains elevated. Recent economic data from the US suggest robust economic activity, with low unemployment rates, strong wage growth, and job gains. The persistence of elevated inflation and ongoing US economic strength will likely postpone the start of interest rate cuts and reduce the depth of the rate-cutting cycle. Throughout 1Q24, the market has aggressively adjusted interest rate expectations as investors expressed increasing doubts regarding the extent of monetary easing in 2024, particularly for the US Federal Reserve (Fed). At the start of this year, the derivatives market had priced in about six 25-bp cuts to the Fed funds rate by year-end. However, by the end of 1Q24, the probability of this event had effectively diminished to zero, with the market now pricing in around three 25-bp cuts to the Fed funds rate by year-end. Consequently, benchmark 10-year yields across major economies have repriced higher over the quarter, with US Treasury, UK gilt, and German bund yields rising by 34 bps, 40 bps, and 35 bps, respectively. Locally, South African government bond (SAGB) yields increased in 1Q24, with yields on the R186, R2035, and R2044 up by 60 bps, 91 bps, and 79 bps, respectively. The market now expects only one 25-bp cut to the repo rate in 2024, compared to the three 25-bp cuts priced in at the start of this year. To continue taking advantage of high interest rates while maintaining low duration, more than 90% of the portfolio consists of floating-rate notes (FRNs). To minimise credit risk, approximately 85% of the portfolio is invested in debt instruments within the AAA and AA rating buckets. The fund's primary objective remains capital preservation while delivering income returns that exceed those offered by money market portfolios.

A higher TER ratio does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TER's. Transaction Costs are a necessary cost in administering the Fund and impacts Fund returns. The TIC should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over me including market returns, the type of Fund, the investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.
