FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY AT 31 MAY 2025

The fund delivered a strong month for the second consecutive month (+2.2% MoM). The bulk of the fund's returns came from the domestic exposure, as a strong South African (SA) currency (+3.3% MoM vs the US dollar) provided a headwind for offshore investments. The domestic equity allocation benefitted from particularly strong contributions from investment holding companies Naspers and Prosus (+6% MoM) as a de-escalation in China/US trade policy combined with a solid earnings announcement from Tencent during the month. Food producer, Tiger Brands (+20% MoM), was another standout performer as management continues to execute well on its turnaround plan. The maker of Albany bread's 1H25 strong earnings announcement was accompanied by news of a special dividend from the results of management's streamlining efforts. Investec (+10% MoM) delivered FY25 results with revenue ahead of expectations and above the top of its guided range. The domestic equity allocation also benefitted from exposure to platinum shares (+19% MoM) as the platinum price (+9% MoM) finally found some support, ostensibly from signs of jewellery demand out of China. The fund's domestic fixed income allocation benefitted from the rally in government bonds in the wake of easing geopolitical tensions and returning global risk appetite. Geopolitical sentiment improved on the back of the Government of National Unity's (GNU) successful adoption of a budget at the third attempt. A much-anticipated visit by an eclectic SA delegation (including politicians, businessmen, and golfers) to the White House to meet with US President Donald Trump also ended with the path to a smoothing of bilateral tensions between the US and SA still intact. The offshore equity allocation had some strong contributions from the likes of Microsoft and Shopify, which were able to deliver double-digit returns despite the currency headwind.
