Zoom Video Communications

FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY AT 30 SEP 2020

Zoom Video Communications' 2Q20 results were as good as we have ever seen from a public company. Zoom's revenue grew by an incredible 355% YoY driven, in part, by 112% YoY growth from its larger enterprise customers. The number of customers with more than 10 employees grew by a stupendous 458% YoY. The Americas region delivered stunning revenue growth of 288% YoY, while the Rest of the World segment grew by an even more astonishing 629% YoY. Zoom managed to convert 56% of its revenue into free cash flow, which grew twenty-fold YoY. Importantly, Zoom's management team is planning to use this windfall to reinvest in the business, with an emphasis on research and development as well as sales and marketing. The major question at this point is to what extent the COVID-19 pandemic has normalised video conferencing and remote work. It is entirely conceivable that phrases like "Zoom is the new rent" and "Zoom is the new business travel" become commonplace after the pandemic subsides. While Zoom is not a like-for-like replacement for in-person meetings (and is not intended to be) it can nevertheless disrupt these massive markets, capturing some of the value transferred in the process. As new-user cases for video conferencing proliferate and Zoom enters adjacent markets (e.g. in enterprise voice communications), it may be that the company's best days still lie ahead.
